Fear Siren Blast May Be Tormenting

A 10 horsepower siren may be mounted just behind the pumping station at Bancroft rd.

The Board of Public Works gave permission for the work Tuesday night, but expressed fear that nearby residents will be tormented by the siren's shriek.

Contractor Charles Hill appeared before the Board, stating that he has been retained by Harold Wennik, director of Civil Defense, to install two sirens. One will go on top of the West School, while the second will be mounted at Bancroft rd.

Hill said he has obtained a go-ahead from school authorities and wanted BPW permission to tap into the electrical service at the pumping station. The siren, he said, will be mounted on top of a ruggedly-built platform just slightly higher than the pumping plant itself.

Hill said the specifications for the siren state it must produce 115 decibels at 100 feet.

Board member Mason Arnold said he'd be "afraid" of the noise from a siren mounted at such a low height and pointed out that several residents could be seriously bothered when the siren is

Red Cross Annual Meeting Next Tuesday

At the annual meeting Tuesday, Oct. 21, the Andover Red Cross will recognize the 10th anniversary of the civilian blood program, by having Dr. Dwight E. Harken, pioneer in heart surgery, as the chief speaker and by presenting awards to gallon blood donors and to cooperating schools and industries.

Everybody is cordially invited to the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Free Church on Elm st., and to the buffet supper served by the Red Cross canteen at 6:30 p.m. Those who expect to attend the supper are asked to call the chapter house before this week-end.

Dr. Harken will talk about recent advances in heart surgery and will show a short film of a heart operation. During the war, Dr. Harken, who had graduated from the Harvard Medical School and studied in England, was chief consultant in thoracic surgery in the European theater and performed the first consistently successful intra-cardiac surgery on wounded soldiers.

Now a surgeon at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, chief of thoracic surgery at the Malden and Mt. Auburn Hospitals, and associate professor at the Harvard Medical School, he is internationally known for his operations on the mitral valve.

This will be the last Red Cross meeting which Miss Barbara Loomer will attend as Chapter executive secretary. She leaves Oct. 31 to take up new duties with the Boston Chapter.

Many of her friends attended a testimonial dinner in her honor Tuesday night.

Lucey Received Award From Junior Chamber

William F. Lucey, 187 Summer st., business manager of the Lawrence Eagle and Tribune, was the recipient last Thursday evening of the Greater Lawrence Junior Chamber of Commerce Good Cit-zenship award, presented in honor of the late Ralph B. Wilkinson.

Mr. Lucey was the third Andover resident to receive the award since its inception. Award winners in other years were Walter V. Demers, in 1954; Dr. Milton J. Meyers, 1955; the late Abbot Stevens of No. Andover, 1956 and Lawrence School Supt. James P. Hennessey, 1957.

Victor Riesel, noted columnist, was featured speaker at the banquet. He discussed various phases of his career, including the acid-throwing incident that left him

9,236 VOTERS MAY CAST BALLOTS NOV. 4

There are 9,236 men and women eligible to vote in the state election Nov. 4, according to latest tabulations by Town Clerk George Winslow.

The newest tally shows an increase of 484 over the total just before the state primary early in September.

By precincts, there are 2,024 voters in precinct one; 1,476, precinct two; 1,774, precinct three; 1,377, precinct four; 718, precinct five and 1,867, precinct six. All six precincts show an increase over the pre-primary totals.

Of the total registration, 1,273 are Democrats, 3,702 are Republicans and the remainder, 4,261, are unenrolled.

Absentee Ballots Now Available

Interest in absentee ballots is about average for a state election, according to Town Clerk George Winslow.

With the state election just over two weeks away, there have been some requests for absentee ballots from men and women who know they will be out of Andover Nov. 4. Others have come from persons who have moved, but whose names are still on the local list of voters.

Mr. Winslow said there as yet has been no actual requests for ballots for servicemen who are not registered voters.

Under the law, the next-of-kin of a serviceman, who would be eligible to register if he were at home, may request in writing that a ballot be sent to the serviceman. Although this does not mean that the individual is registered to vote in subsequent elections, it gives him the right to vote in the election for which the application is signed.

According to specified procedure, the town clerk sends absentee ballots on receipt of an

Meet Stoneham Saturday At 2

Andover High suffered its first loss of the season last Saturday, going down before a strong Billerica eleven. The final score was 30-6.

The Blue Devils will carry a 1-1 record into next Saturday's 2 p.m. game at Stoneham.

Billerica took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter on a 40-yard drive. Quarterback Jack Lavery highlighted the push with a 30-yard run which carried him into the end zone. The points were rushed by Jack Long.

Andover came back in the next few minutes to make it an 8-6 ball game. Quarterback Jim Dowd hurled a 30-yard pass to Frank Emmett for the TD. Big men in the march were Fred Allen and Jim McKiniry, who ripped off important yardage.

Andover stayed right in the game until the third period when

THE TOWNSMAN

The state will be asked to call for alternate bids on providing a temporary bridge over the Shawshen River in Ballardvale, when work starts on reconstruction of the present bridge.

The Board of Public Works voted Tuesday night to make the request, hoping this might be the solution to having the present structure shut down for traffic over a three or four month period.

Chairman Alex Henderson and members Mason F. Arnold and David Thompson took the formal step after being told that the state plans a minimum three-month period of construction, which may easily stretch into four months. During this period, the state would have a foot path over the bridge, but all vehicular access would be shut off.

There was some discussion, without decision, on asking the Army Engineers to install a Bailey Bridge. Mr. Arnold said he has taken steps to find out what the procedure might be in following up such a request.

The Ballardvale bridge, in use under emergency restrictions since it started to collapse over a year ago, will be reconstructed under Chapter 90 funds. This requires that the state work up all the plans, call for bids and award

Abbot Academy will present Christopher Legge, Head Librarian at Bradford Junior College, in an illustrated lecture with colored slides, entitled "The Arab Middle East". It is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock and the public is cordially invited to attend.The Middle East, where three continents meet, is featured daily in the news, usually as a source of trouble and unrest. Nationalism, oil, and the new state in the area,Israel, all contribute towards Arab political instability. During three years with the American University of Beirut, Mr. Legge had unrivaled opportunity to observe and study the Arab nations which surround Israel. He lived and worked with the people, traveled extensively throughout the area, and studied at first-hand Arab mentality. He heard repeatedly of Arab hatred of Israel, of Arab love of Hitler and the Nazis, of Arab distrust of the West and of the United States. The lecture is illustrated with some hundred superb slides taken by Mr. Legge.
These include pictures of Jerusalem, Petra, Damascus (the oldest city in the world), Baalbeck, Crusader Castles, Byblos (the oldest village in the world), Beirut, and many pictures of the variegated inhabitants of these lands. Now that the United States has become so heavily involved in the Middle East, somebackground knowledge is essential in order to follow the struggle for power that is taking place in the area. Mr. Legge's lecture gives this background and explains why the area is so vitally important to the United States and to the free world.BLUE DEVILS WILL

Ramsey has been playing basketball since sixth grade, practicing 12 months of the year in his back yard in Madisonville, Kentucky in the early days. At Kentucky University, he three times won All America and conference honors and ran up a scoring record of 264, 345, 509 and 490 points in successive seasons. In 1954, he led his teammates in a season of 25 victories and no defeats. In his three seasons with the Celtics, interrupted by military service,
his record has been no less spectacular, and he is now considered one of the mainstays of this fast-moving championship aggregation.The intimate, first-person account of this rising young star, together with the picture showing him working with his teammates, promise a memorable evening for all men who are interested in the elements of success in competi-

blind. And he talked seriously to the large audience about some portions of the McClellan labor investigation.

Serving as toastmaster for the evening was Allan B. Rogers of Sunset Pock rd., chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Committee and managing editor of the Eagle and Tribune.

During the evening, Mrs. Wilkinson was presented a bouquet of roses by William Moriarty, president of the Jaycees.

Mayor John J. Buckley of Lawrence presented the award to Mr. Lucey. In part, he said:

"Although he has been a citizen of the community for only 16 years, he has made more valuable contributions to our people and more institutions than many who have been here a lifetime. They have touched with profound and productive impact upon more of the major elements of our existence, our physical and mental health, our social life, our industrial renaissance, the welfare of our young, our aged and our indigent, the progressive rebirth of our business center fraught with many and perplexing problems that are being resolved daily to meet the challenge of our times."

"His name has been linked in effective capacity with such civic and fraternal agencies as the Chamber of Commerce, the Citizens Committee for Industrial Development, the United Fund, the Boys' Club and kindred and vital factors in social and economic salvation. But, were he given a choice of the community interest closest to his heart, it would no doubt be the Greater Lawrence Child Guidance Center. For every time a delinquent, neglected or disturbed child is made to smile again, and small feet are placed in the path to normal and wholesome life it is indeed another fine hour for this gentleman."

In receiving the award, Mr. Lucey paid tribute to the publisher, Irving E. Rogers, for allowing him the time from his duties to assist in these community endeavors, and expressing his appreciation to those who made him their choice.

He mentioned many of his former newspaper associates as well as executives with whom he served on various committees and official groups throughout the New England area.

Mr. Lucey, a native of Holyoke, was graduated from Northeastern University with a degree of bachelor of commercial science. He was business manager of the Worcester Evening Post for 16 years before becoming associated with the Worcester Telegram-Gazette in 1938. He has served with the Eagle-Tribune Publishing Company for the past 16 years.

Highly recognized in civic and fraternal circles as well as in church endeavors, he was named as a Knight of Malta by the late Pope Pius XII in 1951 — the highest honor the Supreme Pontiff can bestow on a Catholic layman.

Famous Critic Honored

An unusual display honoring the unique work of Mary Colum, called by William Rose Benet the "best woman critic in America" will be arranged at the Memorial Hall Library for the last two weeks of October.

One year ago this month Mary
Colum, wife of the poet-author Padraic Colum, died after leaving us a delightful book "Our Friend James Joyce". Although she and her husband shared the actual writing of the chapters, it was she who planned, shaped and prepared the biography of Joyce, the famous Dubliner who was a close friend during most of his creative years.

In addition to her authorship of
"From These Roots", a study of the ideas that have made modern literature, Mrs. Colum is well known for her auto-biography "Life And The Dream". This memoir is rich in the beauty of her early life in Ireland, her friendship with the famous members of the Irish theater, and her life in America, where she had lived since 1914.

Perhaps her greatest literary achievement, however, was her brilliant criticism. Twenty years after she came to America as wife of the poet, she began her "Life And Literature" department of Forum Magazine, and continued in this office to contribute to that literary journal until it ceased publication in 1940. She wrote for other periodicals - Scribner's,

New Republic, Saturday Review of Literature, Nation, Yale Review,
etc.

Words became fine tools for expression and evaluation under her pen. She has been compared to Rebecca West in her interpretation of literature.

Readers who love the beauty of Mary Colum's work will enjoy the display at the library, arranged by James J. Ford, one of the library's book enthusiasts.

The Andover Historical Society observed the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Andover-Newton Theological School at its semi-annual meeting last night at South Church.

Dr. Claude M. Fuess, retired headmaster of Phillips Academy, delivered a lecture on the history of the school.

Established Sept. 28, 1808, as Andover Theological Seminary the institution was intended to raise the educational standards of ministers of the congregational tradition. Prior to then, any man might be elected minister of a congregation, particularly outside the Roman Catholic or Protestant Episcopal denominations.

After 100 years in Andover, the seminary began to be concerned with doctrinal issues, as between Unitarian liberalism and other denominations of more Calvinist background.

Officials of the seminary accepted a chance to sell its three buildings to Phillips Academy. So, the institution moved to Cambridge to become part of Harvard Divinity School.

But this situation did not improve matters and the seminary, in effect, went into eclipse. But in 1932, it was revived and moved out to become associated with the Newton Theological Seminary. The two institutions maintain their individuality under one discipline.
Particularly, it prepares students for the Congregational and Baptist ministries.

While a student at Andover in 1934, the Rev. Samuel F. Smith wrote the words of the hymn,
"America."

C. G. Reserve Has Vacancies

William H. Franklin of Andover, Boilerman first class of the Coast Guard Recruiting service in Lawrence, announced today that there are still vacancies in the roster of the local Coast Guard Reserve Unit in Lawrence.

According to Franklin, the unit is of a Port Security classification and men in all petty officer ratings are now needed. Together with Coast Guard veterans, men formerly in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines are welcome to apply and if selected will be rated as high or higher than previously, depending upon schooling and experience gained since their release from the service.

There are also vacancies for young men between the ages of 17 and 21 to enlist in the six month active duty program. Men between the ages of 17 and 18½ who are still in school may enlist now and be assured of not being called for their active duty until after graduation.

Franklin added that an important coast guard duty in a national emergency is protection of our harbors and waterfronts against espionage, sabotage, and other disasters. Port Security units prepare for this duty with training in anti-sabotage, counter-espionage, fire prevention, fire-fighting and radiological defense. For further information on these enlistment programs, contact Franklin at the Lawrence Post Office or at the Naval Reserve Unit on North Parrish rd., in Lawrence Thursday evenings.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Taxpayers Use Poor Reasoning

We thought the Taxpayers' Association argument against a proposed apartment district, at town meeting last week, was singularly unimpressive.

In fact, carried to its logical conclusion, it might be considered potentially dangerous to the community.

The Association, you will recall, reasoned that older residents would feel the urge to sell their property and move into the garden-type apartments planned for the area. Young folks, with "tax liabilities", would buy their large homes. The cost of educating the youngsters, the Association decided, would be just too much for the town to bear, in relation to the tax income from the apartment project.

The argument, as presented by Henry Wolfson, could only be considered reasonable if one assumed that none of these younger couples would move to town unless the apartments were built. Yet it can be reasonably deduced from the rate of construction and the plans for hundreds of homes in the community that young people are coming anyway — either into the new homes or into the homes built in other years.

To avoid having more little "tax liabilities" in the community, we would have to restrict building very severely, at the same time taking such steps as the Association took last week.

It seems to us that, unless the town is willing to restrict the amount of building sharply and to control the price and size of every house that is built, we just can't avoid growth. This is a nice town and many people know it. And knowing it, they want to live here.

Rather than a sound reason, the Association's statement actually sounded more like an excuse for taking a position that could not itself be explained on the floor of town meeting.

But if this is not so, and if the Association continues to hold this belief, then consider the potential harm it could do:

What happens, for example, if an industry wants to come here?

Would it not be reasonable to assume that the Taxpayers' Association would have to object — citing the possibility that too many employees of the firm would come to town, bringing their "tax liabilities" with them?

What a state our town would be in, if it could not grow sensibly because someone or some group was continually afraid of the future.

Rather than being fearful, we suggest that the community, and those groups and individuals having leadership in town affairs, take aggressive steps in the direction of sound expansion. Let's not, under any circumstances, allow ourselves to become merely a bedroom — a convenient place for employees of corporations in the area to live, without any of the benefits of the added tax dollars such industries can offer.

Let's adopt a positive, healthy attitude towards proposals that will place more tax dollars in our coffers — whether they be industrial, commercial or relatively clean residential dollars.

A Tough Decision To Make

The great quandry, in the minds of many thinking townspeople this week, is merit pay for teachers.

And in our thinking, too, there is a great question — can a merit system work?

There has been little doubt that payment according to merit would be equitable, rewarding those teachers with superior ability according to that ability. This is a fine theory and most men and women subscribe to it.

But School Committee Chairman Roy Russell raised serious doubts last week that such a system can be made to work. He questioned methods of evaluation that might be used; wondered if politics might enter the picture; whether teachers evaluating one another could be impartial. He also questioned the possibility of fairly evaluating teacher performance, when one teacher might be a good salesman for himself but actually have no more ability than another, who might not make so much of an impression on the evaluating committee.

And all his doubts about the system were valid. Other members of the School Committee just felt that they could be overcome, while agreeing that in most cases where such a system fails, it is for these same reasons. This leaves considerable doubt in many minds — should we try such a system, at whatever expense, or should we hesitate to embark on a program that is actually experimental and known to be filled with traps for the unwary?

But the biggest quandry of them all is this question: What will we do if the merit system is not adopted?

No one has the answer for that. The town might have to continually boost the salary schedule maximums, taking all teachers up the ladder in order to make teaching positions enticing for the teachers who might otherwise be on a merit schedule. Would this be fair to the town?

The voters might have to set a maximum on the schedule, as an alternative to raising it, and simply agree beforehand that the best teachers probably will leave some day for better paying positions. Is this fair to the youngsters?

It is easily demonstrated that the problem is of considerable importance and that there are no pat answers.

This is one of the most vital decisions, in its effect on the town and its schools, that has been taken for many years. There are ample reasons for approving merit payments and there are good reasons not to.

It would be particularly interesting to find out what you, the voters, think. We'll be happy to publish signed letters on the subject, whether they merely discuss the issues involved or present the firm opinion of the writer.

This, after all, is a decision that will be made at town meeting, when budgets are acted upon. So this is a fine time to start thinking seriously about it, so that full discussion and better understanding of the issues will result in a sensible vote next March.

Says Garden Apartments Are Asset To Community

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"Constructive progress in the lovely town of Andover was set back 20 years Monday night (Oct. 6) in blocking the construction of an apartment project which would have brought credit to the community.

"Mr. Henry A. Wolfson, representing a Taxpayers Association, presented no clear cut opposition to the proposed apartment house project at Monday's Town Meeting. Concerning his statement that most towns which had adopted and approved an apartment project found it to be a tax liability, no one seriously challenged the statement. Mr. Wolfson further stated at the meeting that older persons, moving into such projects, sold homes to younger couples with families, thus creating school age children who have to be educated through tax dollars and consequently causing a tax liability. My conclusion reached by Mr. Wolfson's latter remarks (and subsequently apparently approved by the assemblage) is that (1) young people should not have opportunity to buy old peoples' houses (2) young married couples should discontinue having children because they subsequently create school age children regardless of ultimate retardation of our community and (3) no more kids, they cost too much to educate.

"Every thoughtful citizen of Andover and its environs should be wondering what such great companies as Western Electric and Raytheon might think about preventing their local executives and technical personnel having access to what could have proved to be a respectable abode for their employees, who may have temporary assignments or who wish to defer buying a house until later date, yet have the advantage of living in a desirable area.

"Before moving to Andover, we lived in an area as old and rich in tradition as we all enjoy here. As a member of the Industrial Development Committee of the former community in which I lived we were responsible for bringing 16 nationally-known companies to the industrial parks in our area. I know from first hand experience that one of the first points considered by industrial scouts is the matter of housing. In order to attract industry, we encouraged a local wealthy resident to invest one and one half million dollars in an apartment project, right smack dab in the best residential area of the town, which incidentally is noted for its beautiful homes. This apartment project is a credit to the community because (1) a large tax revenue is realized (Andover lost $26,000) (2) stimulated real estate since every one ultimately wants to own their own home (3) helped industry decide to relocate because of availability of modern apartments and not a hodgepodge of converted apartments in fire trap old houses. This procedure as outlined above has been repeated across the nation in those communities where the future welfare and progress of the community is seriously undertaken.

"This week the Associated Industries of Massachusetts announced that 94 companies, involving 21,145 jobs have ceased operation in Massachusetts. If communities such as Andover don't do their part to help attract industry into their respective areas by inducement — Heaven Help Us! I'm afraid that we will be forced to adopt the Andover Taxpayers Association suggestions, namely, let's hold down progress in our community. Let's keep the old apartments now in existence. After all, we've got to restrain our tenants from getting any fancy ideas.

"I don't know Mr. Rosen from Adam. I do know, however, that any man who proposes to spend a million and one half dollars for a worthwhile project should be taken seriously. An impartial citizen committee should have been set up to thoroughly and intelligently investigate the merits and demerits of such a proposal. Perhaps Mr. Rosen will be back shortly to invest his money in a super market to be located on Main st. and will no doubt be granted a re-zoning privilege so that we can help to commercialize our lovely Main st. area with acres of asphalt."

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — October, 1908

A new electric clock has been installed in the Crowley drug-store.

Owing to injuries of several players, the football game between Danvers and Pynchard High has been cancelled by Pynchard officials.

Dr. John A. Leitch has purchased a new automobile.

About 25 men met in Christ Church Parish House Tuesday evening and perfected the organization of a men's club. The Rev. R. LeB. Lynch was named president; William Odlin, vice president; Nesbit G. Gleason, secretary and Albert E. Hulme, treasurer.

The suit of Alexander Crockett against the town opened in Newburyport civil court this morning. Crockett claims he sustained in juries because of a defect in the roadway.

25 Years Ago — October, 1933

Congressman William P. Connery Jr. has recommended the appointment of John J. McDonald, 123 Chestnut st., as permanent postmaster. McDonald filled the post for nine years during the Wilson administration. Temporary postmaster now is Frederick Cheever. It is expected that the appointment will be made soon.

Some 4000 persons marched in the giant NRA parade Monday night, with gaily decorated floats, bands and red lights dotting the line of march. It was the largest parade in memory here.

The Don Cossack Russian Chorus will sing here Tuesday night in George Washington Hall. The Chorus is made up of former officers in the Russian army.

A possibility of a housing development in the West Andover section was brought to light this week, with the report that a wealthy former resident is interested in the project. The gentleman, reported to have made his fortune in Puerto Rico, plans homes on two-acre lots, selling for $2,000 and $2,400.

Dr. and Mrs. Claude M. Fuess were guests of honor last Sunday night, as members of the Phillips Academy faculty welcomed their new headmaster.

10 Years Ago — October, 1948

The Selectmen have unanimously gone on record as opposing the question on the Ballot Nov. 2 that would create a Merrimack River Sewerage District for the purpose of constructing and equipping a sewerage treatment plant or plants. The chief objection is the estimate that the project would cost Andover $50,000 annually for 40 years.

The Andover Evening Study program starts Monday night at Phillips Academy, for its 12th season. Punchard's Blue Devils trounced Reading, 20-0, last Saturday.

Andover's goal is $18,430 in the Community Chest drive starting Monday. Vincent Treanor, local chairman, has called for additional volunteers to help with the solicitation.

Roy E. Hardy was elected chairman of the local Red Cross Chapter at the annual meeting Wednesday night in the town hall. Others elected were Ernest S. Young, vice chairman; Phillip F. Ripley, treasurer and Mrs. Frederick Johnson, recording secretary.

contracts. The state also furnishes all supervision. The town pays, ultimately, one-fourth of the cost, with the state paying one-half and the county one-fourth.

The plans for the project have been furnished the town, for inspection and comment. Water Supt. Donald Bassett has suggested changes in the method of hanging sewer and water pipes from the bridge and has also explained that insulated pipe need not be used, as the water main slung from the bridge now has not been insulated for at least 50 years. Bassett said it costs as much to insulate the pipe as it does to install it.

During the discussion, Mr. Thompson suggested the state be asked to write a penalty-bonus contract, so that the contractor would keep the job moving quickly. He expressed amazement at the length of the job, as proposed by the state, and agreed it would be difficult for Ballardvale people to have the structure tied up that long.

Office Manager Calvin Metcalf said he had been informed that school bus routes will be altered during the period of construction.

But members pointed out that some residents of the Vale will be cut off from their mail, unless they drive through Andover and down to the Post Office or walk across the foot path. Small businesses will also suffer, members felt, as other residents of the Vale find that it is too difficult to reach them. Youngsters who walk to the South School also pose a problem, the Board felt, as they might be required to walk across the temporary foot path while construction is in progress.

May Delay Start

Actually, there now appears to be considerable doubt as to the starting time of the project.

Mr. Metcalf said a state engineer had told him this week that the contract might not be awarded until Dec. 1 and, if the weather looked too grim, the job might not begin until spring. The Board was definite in its view that it would be very undesirable to have the job start, close the bridge down, then stop the job for the winter months. But this decision, they stated, is completely up to the state.

The old adage that makes the best teacher is fact when one is brought into the classroom. It was the fall of 1957 when Charles Gregory, an Andover teaching from Bates College, came to Andover. Andover tradition, teacher and principal, lovely, Mr. Gregory taught Civics, American History, U.S. History, and at times had taught a single day. For Andover know of success at coaching times his relay team successful in the "trial" at the Academics.

This year Mr. Gregory, that he be assigned since Department since his best talents in young people. This him to accomplish his work with and help. Concerning today's "Teenager," Mr. Gregory think they are as beautiful to be. For they are well dressed, their manners are local youngsters Mr. Gregory this to say, "I honestly think that in Andover exceptional type of person. I'm not saying that towns are not as good here a very high percentage well mannered and loved."

Now that the move is Gregory's move is known he proud to have among a man of the caliber Gregory. May he have

CHARLES GREGORY

The old adage that experience makes the best teacher assumes a fact when our own Mr. Gregory is brought into the picture.

It was the fall of 1924 that Charles Gregory started in the Andover teaching system. Fresh from Bates College like another Andover tradition, former coach, teacher and principal Eugene Lovely, Mr. Gregory has since taught Civics, Ancient History, World History, U.S. History, and at times had taught 150 students in a single day. Few people in Andover know of Mr. Gregory's success at coaching track. Many times his relay teams were very successful in the "interscholastics" at the Academy cage years ago.

This year Mr. Gregory requested that he be assigned to the Guidance Department since he felt that his best talents lay in helping young people. This change enables him to accomplish his ambition to work with and help youngsters. Concerning today's so called "Teenager," Mr. Gregory doesn't think they are as bad as they are pictured to be. For the most part they are well dressed, clean and their manners are good. Of the local youngsters Mr. Gregory has this to say, "I honestly mean this, I think that in Andover we have an exceptional type of young people. I'm not saying that kids in other towns are not as good as ours, but here a very high percentage are well mannered and very well behaved."

Now that the motive of Mr. Gregory's move is known we should be proud to have among our faculty a man of the calibre of Charles Gregory. May he have continued good health in the years ahead to assist him in his guidance role. It is doubtful that a better man could be found for the position.

Reminds Motorists Of Inspection Rule

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley this week stressed the fact that approximately two weeks remain in the month of October in which motorists must comply with the compulsory motor vehicle inspection law.

Massachusetts registered vehicles which have been operated at any time during the month of October on Massachusetts highways must be inspected.

Registrar Riley said, "During past inspection periods, public awareness and compliance with compulsory inspection has been gratifying and we are confident motorists will continue their cooperation."

Registry of Motor Vehicles Inspectors are now placing blue Inspection Reminder Cards on the windshields of vehicles which have not been inspected. They read, "Inspection Reminder! Every registered motor vehicle must be inspected this month. Avoid penalties provided by law. Have your car inspected NOW."

Silver Tea Is Sunday

Guild members of St. Augustine's School will hold a Silver Tea and reception for the Sisters of Notre Dame at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 19, in the school hall.

An annual affair, it affords an opportunity for mothers to meet the Sisters who teach the school children. This year's affair will feature Miss Elizabeth McKenna of Methuen, who will speak on "The Madonna - The Greatest of Masterpieces".

Mrs. James Gerraughty and Mrs. James Cronin, co-chairmen of the event, have named the following committee: Mrs. James Doherty, Mrs. Lawrence Morrisroe, Mrs. James McGravey, Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. James Prout and Mrs. Timothy Cronin.

application from a registered voter. The ballot, properly notarized, must be returned to the town clerk before the polls close election day. And the envelope must be postmarked from some other community.

Ballots for registered voters who are sick and unable to get to the polling places may be obtained if a doctor or nurse signs the request, certifying that the individual can not physically get to the polls. This ballot, properly notarized, may be returned to the town clerk by mail or messenger and does not need to be postmarked outside the town.

The servicemen's ballots, for those not registered, must be notarized as are all absentee ballots. They, too, must be returned to the town clerk before the polls close Nov. 4. Ballots for registered servicemen are treated as a normal absentee ballot.

Mr. Winslow estimated the interest as being about normal for a year when no presidential choice is involved.

The ballots have just been received, he said, so that properly executed requests for absentee ballots can be filled promptly.

In other election activity, the local scene is best described as "quiet". No exceptional interest has been noted for any of the candidates, other than the normal activity of the elected town committees. Most members of the Republican state ticket have visited the town, while Senator John F. Kennedy also has stopped here. Gov. Councillor Augustus Means of Essex has been in the area on several occasions, seeking support in his campaign for re-election.

ARTHUR ATTENDING VERMONT ACADEMY

An interesting leather fashion show will be held at Christ Church Parish House Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. sponsored by the Friendly Guild.

Ladies coats, jackets, hats, shirts, suits and matching handbags will be modeled by the following Guild members: Mrs. Charles Cottrell, Mrs. Edgar Johanson, Mrs. John Reece, Mrs. James Caldwell, Mrs. Harold Colburn, Mrs. Homer Wadman, Mrs. John Mooney, Mrs. Albert Swenson and Miss Linda Johanson. There will also be an exhibit of leather goods.

The Committee includes Mrs. Malcolm Battles, chairman; assisted by Mrs. Cottrell, Mrs. Johanson, Mrs. William Rhoads, Mrs. Edward Dean, Miss Gertrude Taylor and Mrs. Howard Young.

Tickets may be obtained from any of the members. Door prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served at the show.

AHS Service Club Organizes

The Service Club of Andover High School is in the process of organizing for the coming year's activities.

Briefly, the aims of the Service Club are to render service to both the community and the school in as many ways as possible.

In past years, the Club has provided baby sitters for people attending town meetings, collected and renovated stuffed toys which were presented to the North Reading Sanatorium, sent get-well cards to students who were ill for a long period of time, and flowers to the families that had met with serious tragedies, organized messengers for the health clinic during free school time, and built a nativity scene for the school at Christmas time.

It is the hope of the Club that many worthwhile projects will be accomplished during the coming year. The first scheduled event this year will be a dance Oct. 23, at the High School.

SANBORN AT DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

One Andover man matriculated at Dartmouth College last month, joining the 780 members of the incoming freshman class of 1962. Dartmouth, an all-male undergraduate college dating from 1769, draws students from every state in the union and many foreign nations.

He is Scott Webster Sanborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Sanborn of Hidden Field.

Plan Meetings To Raise Funds

The Andover Smith College Club met Oct. 9 and discussed plans for a program to increase funds for scholarship aid.

A series of benefit parties will be held, with the following members scheduled to be hostesses: Mrs. F.W.H. Stott and Mrs. Kenneth S. Minard; Mrs. William Handy of No. Andover; Mrs. John Giblin of Methuen; Mrs. Caroline Eaton of Abbot Academy and Mrs. Ather-ton Tucker; Mrs. Edward McGandy and Mrs. Frank W. Reynolds II.

Other members will be hostesses at benefit parties during the season. The meeting last week was informed that one Andover girl, Miss Karen Trott, has finished her first year at Smith and is receiving some assistance from the Club.

The hostesses, Mrs. Minard and Mrs. Stott, served tea.
